ENVIRONMENTAL LAW AND MARPOL: NAVIGATING ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES FOR A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

EDITED BY: SONAM PRASHER, DEPARTMENT OF LAW, UNIVERSITY OF JAMMU, JAMMU

ABOUT THE BOOK

This book is a comprehensive guide that explores the intersection between Environmental Law and the International conventions for the Prevention of Pollution from ships. The book emphasizes its focus to the challenges faced by the countries and industries in adhering to MARPOL regulations and other Environmental Laws, while striving towards sustainable development. It also examines the Legal frameworks and Mechanisms in place to promote Environmental Protection, such as the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) and the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD), and how they intersect with MARPOL. The book is a comprehension of studies from around the world, highlighting successful approaches to environmental protection and sustainable development. It offers practical advice for policy makers, industry professionals, and other stakeholders on complex legal landscape of environmental protection and MARPOL compliance. Overall, this book aims to provide valuable resource for anyone seeking to understand the intersection of environmental Law and maritime regulations, and how to promote sustainable development in the face of environmental challenges. Therefore, we cordially invite quality research papers in law and related disciplines to Environmental Pollution for an edited book.
