CONCEPT NOTE

Legal Education in India is going through sea change. Many dynamics are being added in the legal field day by day, thus there is an urgent need to give more and more practical understanding of a particular law. In the majority of the law schools, only theoretical aspects of laws being discussed, not much emphasis on practical aspects, problem solving approach. It has become utmost necessary to test students' knowledge by way of problem solving method in respective examination at all level viz. quiz, mid-term, end-term. The Judiciary exam and other competitive exams also ask problem based questions in their examination to check whether candidates are having enough acumen in problem solving or not. Looking at the same, we have initiated this project to come up with unique and interesting problems and its solutions for major law subjects being taught across law schools in India. All selected problems and solutions will be compiled in a form of three books of which details are given below.
